

Funeral for a Dream

Be happy despite your unattained aspirations, relationships and income...

While endings can be extremely painful, nothing feels worse than the never-ending nagging and self-sabotage we subject ourselves to because of an unattained goal. And sometimes no matter what goal-achieving trick or “secret” we try, we have to face the fact that we just might not achieve the goal!

The question is, can you be okay, can you be happy, and can you love yourself unconditionally with or without the dream?

This workshop is about letting go. When we let go of something we free ourselves from being attached to a particular outcome. (And believe it or not, letting go of something is sometimes the key to getting it!)

Join us for a very informal 3 hour workshop where you will design and deliver a funeral for your unattained dream whether it is:

- A financial dream
- A career dream
- A family related dream
- A health related dream
- Or something else...
